

Dental Patients in Stafford have plenty of reasons to smile

22nd September 2011

The Stafford General Dentistry and Implant centre has now officially re-opened, following a £200,000 refurbishment. The dental practice has filled its 7,981 NHS places within the local community but also offers private dental treatment.

The extensive refit included a new two story extension, an additional ground floor dental surgery, a new disabled toilet, and new furniture and decoration throughout. The transformed practice, on Wolverhampton Road, can now provide the very best in patient care, offering a full range of state-of-the art treatments.

To celebrate the re-launch the practice is holding an open day on Saturday 1st October between 10am and 1 pm. Visitors will be welcomed at the practice for complimentary drinks and an opportunity to meet the dentists, and see the facilities for themselves. New private patients, who register on the day will also be offered an amazing 50% off their initial exam.

Sarah Evans, practice manager, says: "It's been amazing to see how the practice has been transformed over the last few months. We're delighted with the improvements and are now able to offer our patients the best possible care in the best possible surroundings."

Justin Ash, Chief Executive of Oasis Dental Care commented "At Oasis, our aim is to lead the way in improving the standard and quality of dentistry, throughout the U.K.

"To date we've heavily invested in our practices through a rolling programme of extensive improvements and refurbishments to ensure we offer the best in patient care and meet legislative demand."

The Stafford General Dentistry and Implant centre has 5 dentists offering a full range of modern dental services including a comprehensive selection of cosmetic treatments to give you that perfect smile. The practice even offers a special sedation service for those patients who dread the dental visits.
